Sweet Sounds of Harmony

Amanda Agalzoff counts off the measures until she plays her flute again.

Studies have found that students who learn music when they are young do better in other areas, such as math. Whether or not this is true, band and choir members have a dedication and love of music. Every year the band and choirs put on numerous concerts for the general public. But what goes on behind the scenes is what really counts. Hours upon hours are spent practicing and learning songs in order to put on a good performance for the public, and in the end their hard work usually pays off. And this year the hard work did pay off--the concert band made it to State for the first time in eight years.

It just makes you want to sing along, Choir rehearses for the next concert.

What time is it? Weasel Time! Donning their cool head bands, Kyle Romine, Tony West, and David Doyle pep up the crowd and the players with their pep band music.

Way to toot those horns. Dwight Holland, Jeremy Packard and Robert Anderson make some groovy music.

Hey look, it's the peppy pep band. Sporting headbands in honor of Weaselworm, the band busts out the tunes.

Drumming is fun! Ashley Bletscher looks like she's having a good time banging away on her drums.

Coming from a marching band program, the Seaside experience was a bit of an adjustment for Terry Dahlgren. However, he has no regrets about choosing to move to Seaside: "I have really enjoyed being here. It's been a great experience."

There is a lot of dedication when a student will get up at 6:30 in the morning to practice music. Yet, this is what jazz band members do every day.

Perfect pitch. Holly Berman, Joel Hathaway, and Brendon Stock try strive for perfection.

All Heart. Jazz band members rehearse yet another number for an upcoming competition.

Hitting those high notes are Martha Francis, Kapri Goodenough, and Tonya Oyala.

The students in beginning choir listen attentively as Mr. White instructs his class.

Yearbook

Deadlines, selling ads, learning to work together, training new staff member, and revising, revising, revising. This can amount to a lot of stress. Journalism students, however, face it head-on. "The first deadline is always the hardest as everyone is adjusting to expectations and how long it takes to get things done. After that, things smoothe out somewhat," stated Mrs. Granatir, who took over as advisor for the yearbook this year.

The editors for the school newspaper were Heather Nelson and Haley Owens this year. As editors, Heather and Haley put in an average of twelve hours every week outside of the regular school day to make sure each issue was completed in time for production. Dedication and a sense of humor are required to be a successful member of the Larus and the Seabreeze.

Big pimpin' and spendin' G's. The music buffs of the Larus: Jason Thayer, Luke Corry, and Freddy Blanche, exhibit their chic long hair at the beginning of class.

Proof This! After several long hours, Travis Gosser and Heather Nelson have lost their enthusiasm but keep proofreading to meet that deadline.

Co-editors Heather Nelson and Haley Owens worked diligently throughout the year with the Larus staff to create a school newspaper of which the entire school could be proud. At times there was strife between the reporters and the editors. but in the end, everything turned out for the best.

"No Grace for Slackers." After working at Seaside High School for many years, Larus Advisor Tim Reed accepted a position abroad for next school year.

Hands on Training

At one time or another, many students feel the need to think outside of the box--and the vocational classes here at SHS fulfill that need. Both woods and metals are available to students who want to express a little creativity while learning applicable, every day skills. Through these vocational classes, students are given the opportunity to learn the craft of woodshop or metals, practice using safe procedures, and create really awesome projects. The experience of participating in vocational classes is one that will not be forgotten. If you feel the need to express your inner creativity, sign up and join the fun.

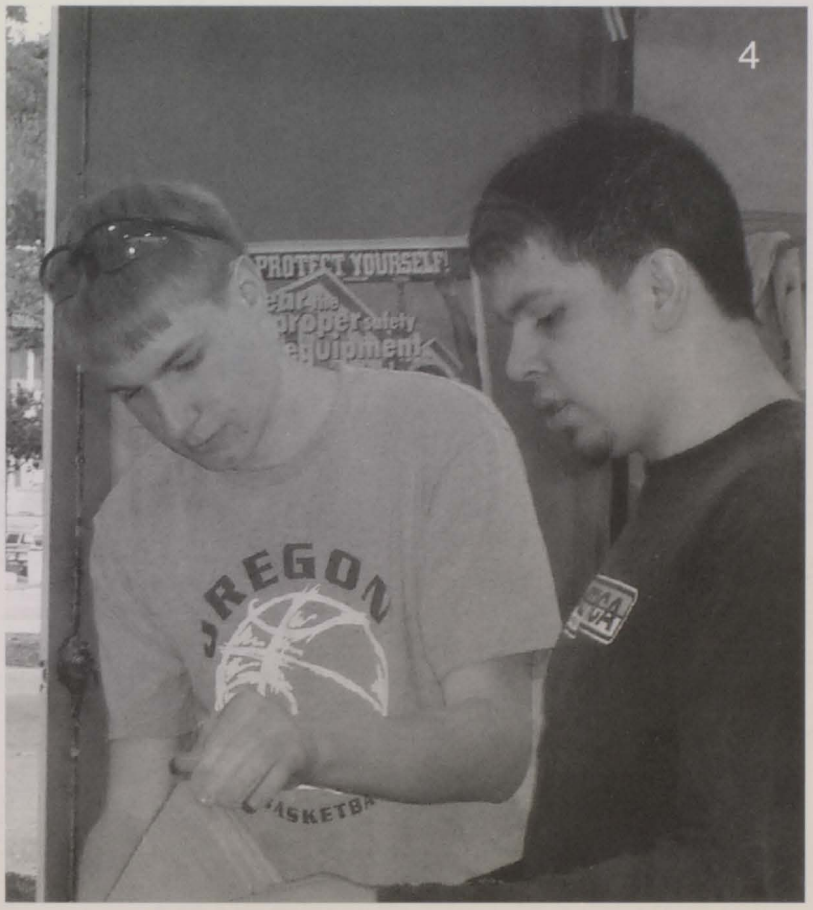
1. Come again? Brendon Stock pauses in the midst of work to listen for further instructions.

2. Hands-On. Justin Rutz and Jeff Rush enjoy shop class because they get to "DO" something rather than just sit in an uncomfortable desk all period.

3. Perfect! Mr. Smith supervises Aaron Harrison as he learns how to use a new piece of equipment.

Form and function. Smoothing the edges, Cody Brown is aiming for rounded corners on his work.

Precise to 1/32". Math skills come in handy when Jarred Cederstrom checks to see if he has measured correctly.



"If things were any different, they wouldn't be as good."

2. All for the students. Mr. Smith confers with a student during break.
3. Heart and soul. Randy Hamburger puts his heart in all he does, handcrafting a masterpiece.
4. Nothing less than the best. Dwight Holland and John Merrow examine their work in class before handing it in.
5. Concentration is the key. Dwight Holland doesn't break his gaze, remembering all he's been taught about the importance of safety.
6. Got it. Jeff Gosser explains his idea for the newest project to Mr. Smith.
7. Careful with that. Gus Dugan welds seamlessly with all the proper equipment.

CLASSES: A PLACE TO LEARN

"Je 'taime Francais- I love French. It's the best class of the day."
~Annika Gudjonsson

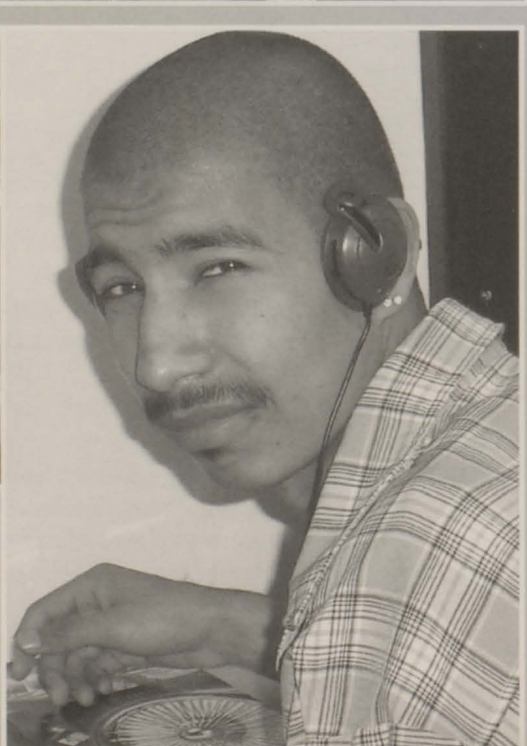
While gaining an education is the main focus of school, everyone agrees that having fun along the way makes learning easier. Students may never admit they "like" school: "The best part of the day is seventh period when the bell rings to go home," commented Ashley Phillips. But the teachers at SHS certainly do their best to help students become successful. Job fairs, field trips, competitions, projects, research papers, experiments, and mini go kart races in science class are but a few memorable parts of the academic year.

To the right: Sean McKeown listens to a group member while working on an English project in Mrs. Granatir's class.

Bonjour! French II class

Hola! Those in the Spanish class strive to learn more each and every day.

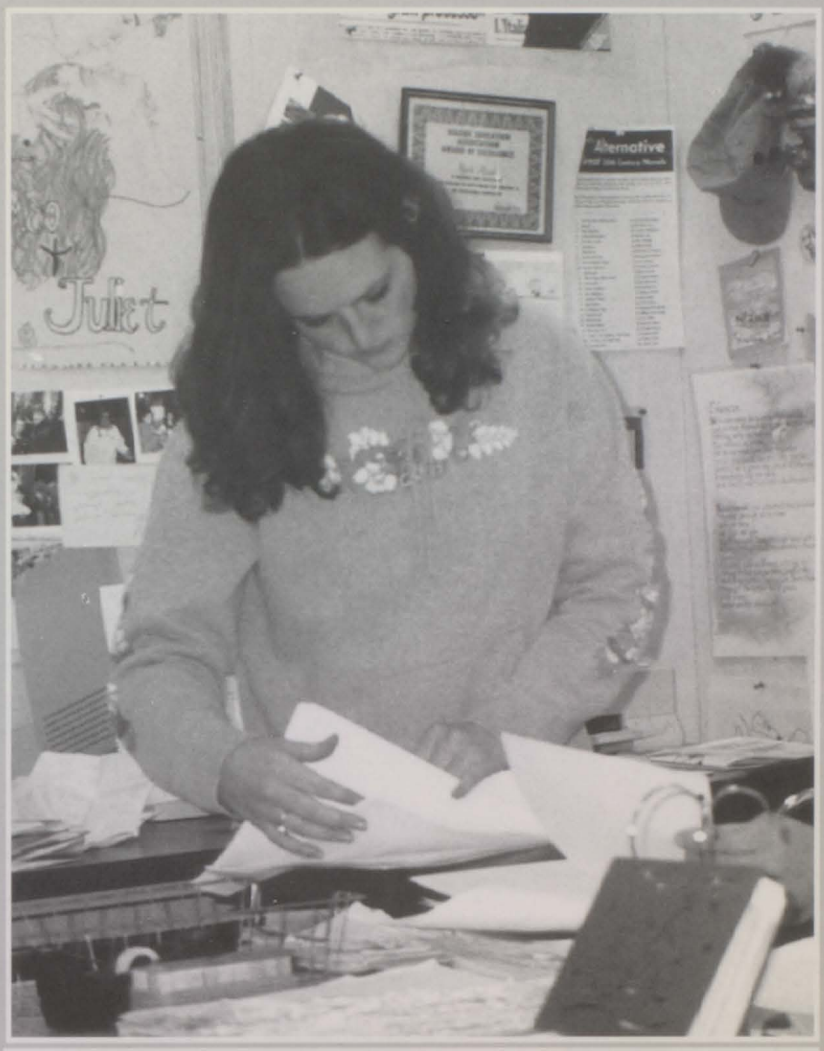
What's the circumference? Mr. Ward teaches his geometry class all about circles.



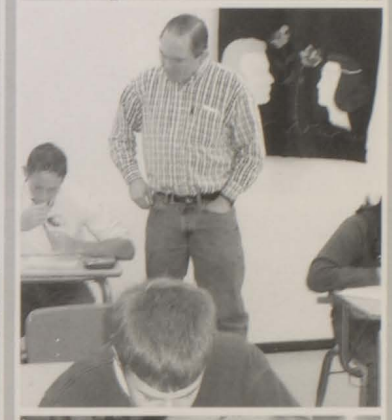
Celebrate Good Times! Senior English students passed a milestone as they all met the senior research paper requirement on time.

Play That Music. Alonzo Leon Campos listens to his tunes as he waits for class to start.

Double checking. Checking to make certain her paper has all the necessary components, Nicole Eldridge goes through the check list with Mr. Mizell.



It's warm-up time! Mr. Hamer's PE class begins their routine stretch at the beginning of their class.



Write on, folks! Mr. Mizell helps one of his creative writing students edit her paper.

Lift it up! Angela Lucia concentrates on her technique while in weight training.

Yum! After returning to Seaside from an exchange program, Hazel Owens scarfs down her steak prepared in the production lab.

Strike a Pose! New yearbook staff members, Tasha Swanson and Amy St. John, contributed their stellar skills in creating the Seabreeze.

Clubs @ SHS

Senior cheerleader co-captain, Heidi Ter Har, also found time to work as the yearbook editor and be a member of Key Club while taking college prep classes.

Part of the high school experience is being involved in the school and the community. Of course this takes extra time, but the rewards are well worth it. When one becomes involved, new opportunities open up; new relationships are fostered; and new perspectives are seen.

A few of the organizations at Seaside that provide these experiences for students include: Key Club, Model United Nations, National Honor Society, Ski Club, Future Business Leaders of Tomorrow, STARS, and OSSOM. Other organizations, like 4-H, exist outside of school and provide wonderful experiences for students also. Becoming involved is a great way to make friends and help your community while learning something new.

Safety First. Part of operating any moving object is using it correctly. Here, Willy Cochran begins to demonstrate the proper use of the chainsaw.

During the summer and school year there is one thing that is on all high schoolers minds: MONEY. There are many ways you could get money, like working around the house or for another family member, but most students get jobs. Jobs are in abundance here in Seaside during spring and summer, when most teens want to work, because of the huge tourist population. Everything from working at the arcade, to the movie theater, to various restaurants are ways to earn the money every teenager longs for. When a student takes on a job they are devoting themselves to a lot of work, long hours and minimum wage, but it is worth it once you feel the touch of cold hard cash in your hand, and the feeling that you don't have to ask your parents for money to buy things.

"Getting into movies for free" is one of the perks of working at the movie theater, according to Tiffany Bush and Leesa Wucherpfennig.

2002 DISTRICT CHAMPIONS!!!

The 2002 soccer season was fun for all. The combined forces of a solid defense and a strong offense led to a District Chamionship finish. The team fought through the entire season winning most district games and only losing a few by a single goal.

A repeat shoot-out against Rainier at the beginning of the State playoffs sent the Gulls on a long trip to Ontario. Both teams competed back and forth for the whole 80 minutes, but, as the time was ticking off the clock, Ontario managed to squeak in a goal, winning 1-0 to send Seaside on their final trip home for the season.

It was a disappointing way to put an end to such a great year, but all in all it will be a season to be remembered, and a farewell to the many seniors who helped lead the soccer team for their four years at Seaside High School. Best of luck to all of you.

Girls Soccer

The Season Was Intense, But Everbody Managed To Bust A Nut!

The 2002 season was intense. A huge freshman flood took over all the positions left open after last season.

With Martha Francis moving out of goal for the first time and Julie Nelson taking over, things were a bit different. Everyone eventually adjusted. Lauren Yokum paired up with Derai Darling on the front line, and Haley Owens dropped back to midfield. Little sister Mel Owens paired up with Stephanie "leftnut" Chestnut on the back line. Martha Francis and Kate Ayres were also supporting Julie Nelson in the back. Although the team was young, many had experience playing together so teamwork came easily. The team bonded together and shared many an inside joke, and laughter was heard often on the soccer field. The team even took the opportunity to go out for a lovely dinner date.

Revving her engines. Kapri Goodenough chases down an Astoria player to capture the ball.

All that football really paid off. Jodie Symonds busts a nut while punting on the soccer field.

Wow, don't they look happy! The Seaside girls varsity team cools down during halftime.

Ain't that sexy! Julie Nelson, Derai Darling, and Kim McDonald flash their tinted tongues for the camera.

Moving at the speed of light. Derai Darling puts her butt into the ball to rocket it to the goal.

VOLLEYBALL

Aces in Training

This was not just an ordinary year of volleyball. The team started it out by doing daily doubles, morning and night practices. It wasn't easy but well worth it.

This year's varsity team was young, with only three seniors. As the year went on, they became better and better with the help of their M.V.P., Chelsea Morrisey, a senior who brought strength to the team and who was a consistent player. The team almost went to State, but they suffered an unfortunate loss in their final game. Although they didn't win, Coach Boyd was still proud and said they had a great year.

During the season they spent some bonding time together on a rock climbing excursion at Smith Rock. A near trip to State and a year of experience should make next year's team even better.

How high can you jump? Varsity players Amanda Laird and Tessa TerHar are in sync while jumping up for a block.

CrossCountry

"Get Down!"

With the addition of a lot of freshmen and some other folks, the cross country team had some new faces and personalities to adjust to this year. But, as Mr. Branson says, "Everyone is always welcome." The team bonded quickly and became close.

It has become somewhat of a tradition for the team to take a trip each year. Last year, the team went down to a meet in San Diego. This year, they traveled to a meet with Tonya Oyala's old school in Hawaii. For two nights, the girls stayed wtih host families, while the boys stayed in dorms at the school in Waimea. Then the next two nights the team stayed together in Kona at Uncle Billy's Hotel. Playing at the beach, snorkeling and swimming in crystal clear water and shopping were some of the fun things to do in Kona. This provided a unique opportunity for the students that many would not otherwise have realized.

The Three Course Challenge was another success this year, with over 300 schools from around the nation participating. A spaghetti feed at SHS fed over 1200 people and the dance at Camp Rilea had around 900 people!

At Districts this year, both teams placed 3rd. Stefan Robinson was the only Seaside runnner to place as a Cowapa League athlete. He went on to the State Championships and did very well.

"The Three Course Challenge is a great opportunity for students to compete, to get to know each other, and to race on one of the most beautiful courses in the nation. I appreciate all of the work Mr. Branson does in organizing the event for the students."
--Mr. Wickersham

"I decided to go out for the team because it is a good way to utilize your after school time."
--Jake McCulloch

Digging deep to come up with that little extra is Jim Wright as he tries to keep the lead over a Lebanon Warrior.

During The Three Course Challenge, Seaside hosted runners from El Camino HS in California.

Football

Plagued by injuries

With so many seniors on the team, it seemed as though the team would go far. Even though things didn't go exactly as planned--like losing their intended starting quarterback (Zack Nyberg) and numerous injuries, the team still managed to stay undefeated for the first three games. Then tragedy struck. All of the injuries added up and held the team back from full potential. The tough league and multiple injuries never allowed the team's high hopes to get off the ground.

Cheerleading

Gulls stand up lets go Yell SHS SHS

This year's cheerleading season started with the Miss Oregon parade as the cheerleaders walked and threw taffy.

For the first time in a while the cheerleaders attended Oregon State University cheerleading camp where they learned various cheers and chants. While perfecting their stunts, they received most improved out of twenty-five other squads that attended, as well as winning the spirit stick decorating competition. The cheerleaders also brought home numerous other awards.

The Football season squad members were Ava Gizdavich, Sydney Pittard, Sara Strite, Kim Haney, Samantha Long, Angela West, Heidi Ter Har, Lacy Lyons, Tasha Reidlinger, and Natalie Pfund. They performed a dance routine during Homecoming week. This year, they also put on a little girls cheer clinic as a fundraiser. The little girls had a blast and they were ready to perform at half time, along with the big girls.

The Basketball season started out strong for the cheerleaders. Unfortunately they lost Angela West, one of the awesome flyers. Otherwise, the sqaud stayed the same as Football. During Basketball season the cheerleaders were at every home game cheering on boys and girls. This season they really emphasized on stunting. They performed a few new stunts never tried before. This year's cheerleaders seemed to entertain most of the fans and even got them to yell along! Overall, this year went really smoothe and was a success!

Boys Basketball

Nothing But Net

The boys basketball season got off to a tough start, only winnng a few pre-season games. Many games were close for the Gulls, but they had a hard time competing to their full strength for the entire four quarters. Games that should have been won were lost by a few points.

Once into the mid-games of the regular season, the team came together and started to fix the little problems that were holding the team back from being successful. As things got rolling, their record improved to over .500. Winning the last four games of the season gave Seaside the home court advantage and a chance for a place in the State Playoffs.

Getting ready for a little shakin' and bakin'. Bo Hamer gets ready to drive the ball to the basket for an easy two.

No one in reach. Vito Cerelli flies high above his defender for a jump shot at the top of the key.

Defense. What defense? Matt Hendryx is left with an easy basket down low in the paint.

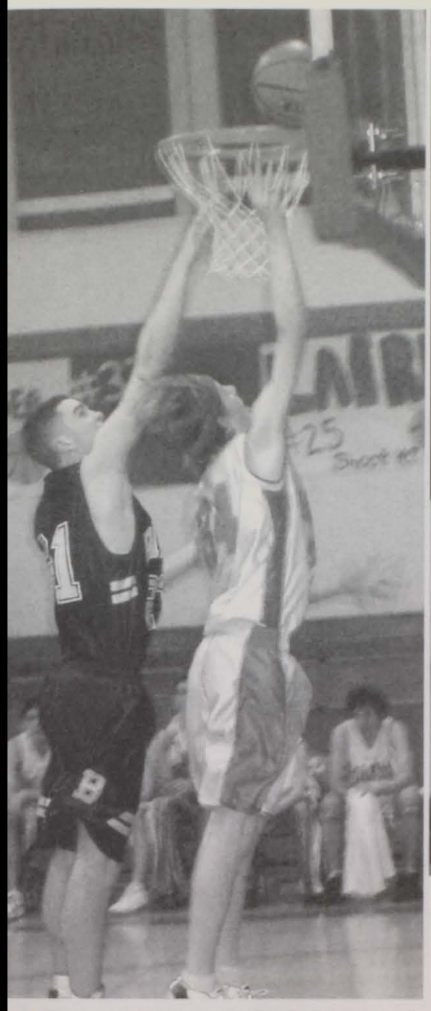
Ball in hand one second, gone the next! Bryan Robison picks the ball away from his opponet to get the easy fast break bucket.

The Weasel sneaks in another two. Senior Noah Dooley jumps past his defender for a lay-up.

High above the rim and slammin' it down. Stewart Potter shows off his dunking ability at basketball practice.



"Just go out and play the fun sport of basketball."

Making the big appearance! Sophomore Nathan Pogue makes it into a varsity game in hopes of making it into the books.

Making the fake for the big shot. Jon Wickersham, makes a move to free up the three point shot.

Firing up the shot. Gabe Wahrmond takes a shot from baseline to get an extra two added to the scoreboard before the halftime show.

Girl's Basketball

Two, two, we want two!!

There's always a mighty tale behind the girl's basketball season. Evidently they worked very hard to become what they were and had to go through a lot to get there. The practices were rough, but they made it out alive. They wanted to be more than just another team.

But hard work isn't always what it takes. In spite of a poor win-loss record, the girl's basketball team remained in good spirits and had an enjoyable year. Coach Conklin commented, "These girls are a pleasure to be around and to coach. We had a tremendous amount of fun. We always had time to joke with each other. These girls work so hard and give so much time; it is difficult to imagine how much each of them gave unless someone is involved. I really admire and respect each of them."

Despite the tough games, the girls remained dedicated, worked hard, and, most importantly, remained very supportive. They constantly encouraged each other. While they were a hard working team, they also had an enjoyable time.

Oh Man, look at that defense! Ashley Flukinger puts on the hard-press defense.

"We had an awesome season this year thanks to the youth of the team," says Derai Darling.

Dribble Dribble Dribble- Maggie Olstedt storms down the court, blazing past the defenders.

Defense! With her eyes on the ball, Derai Darling defends for Seaside. Derai was a three season senior athlete and participated in many activities throughout the school year.

Get'em Maggie! When Maggie Olstedt guards her man, you know Seaside is gonna win.

Air Laird! Amanda Laird breaks through the defense and takes it to the hoop.

Wrestling

Pin 'EM

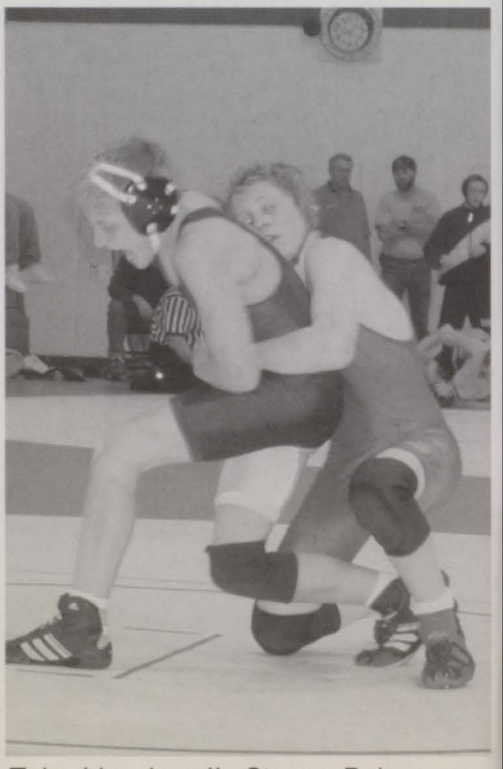
Wrestling, being an individual sport, is unique compared to many other sports offered at SHS. Since it is a one-on-one activity, there is no one to blame for your failure, but likewise, no one else can claim your success.

This was a season of pins, take-downs, escapes, reversals, and a lot of hard work. From October to March, the Seaside Wrestlers went head to head against some of the toughest competition in the state.

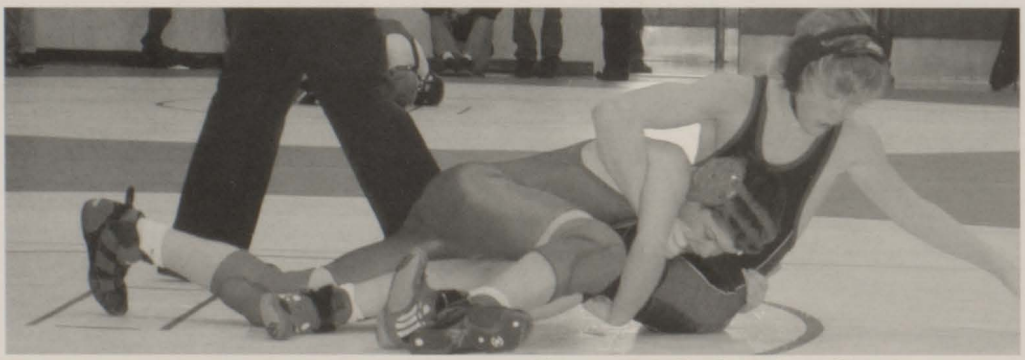
Many members of the team prepared for this season all year long by extreme conditioning and extensive training as well as heavy dieting and personal motivation. To some, this seems to be cruel and unusual punishment. But to a wrestler, it's a matter of dedication and the will to win.

Eliminate the Enemy. A Seaside wrestler rides his opponent. With the right technique, any move can look effortless.

Go Seaside!!! Parents show their support and encouragement for their seniors at Senior Night.



Take him down!! Steven Balzer goes head to head with a soon to be defeated opponent.

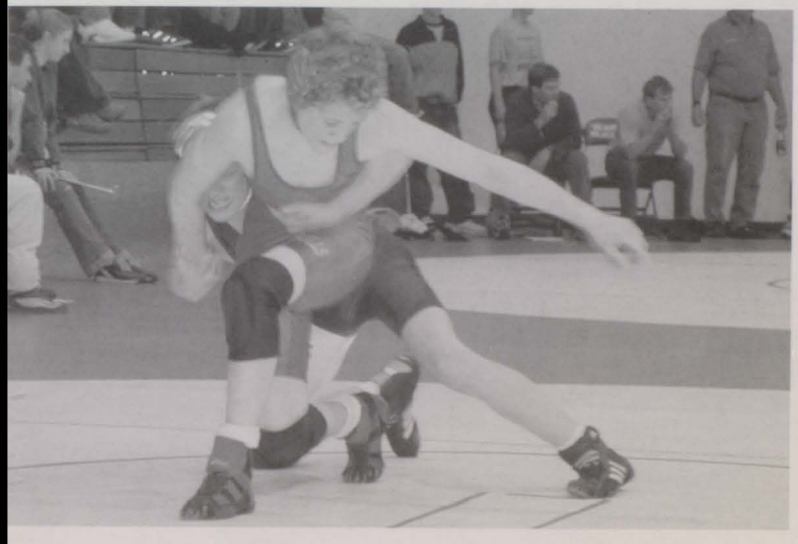


The human pretzel. Brandon Anderson attempts to position himself to pin his adversary.

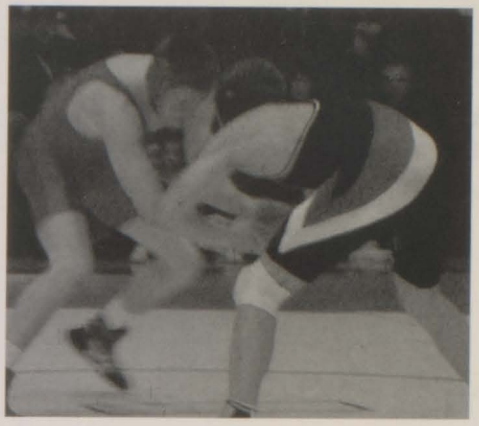
Mutt and Jeff. Coaches Chuck Mattocks and Casey Lunsman show off their heighth difference during practice.

Holdin' On. With the image of a victory in his mind, Seagull Wrestler rides the contender to the mat.

Goin' for it. Junior takes down his opponent with a hip during The Pac Rim Tournament which involved over fourteen schools.



Intimidation Factor. During the face off, it is important to instill fear into the opponent.



Focus. It's 90% mental, 10% physical, and 110% dedication. Doesn't add up? Try being a wrestler. You'll understand.

It's rough listening to all the put downs, but in the end everyone knows, "Wrestling is what MEN do during boys basketball season." --Seagull Wrestlers

Swimming

Dive In

With an undefeated boys team going into districts, the swim season was considered to be a success for all, but, as a rule, "It's all about fun. Swimming is one of the best sports because there's not as much competition as the other sports," according to Karl Dugan. The coaches emphasize having fun, so the athletes enjoy being at practice and want to stick with it. This makes competing less stressful, so everyone does better.

Unfortunately, about half the team consisted of seniors for the 2002-2003 season, so efforts to recruit for next season will have to be high in order to maintain the success of the program.

Austin Thomlinson works on diving technique before starting his race.

GOLF

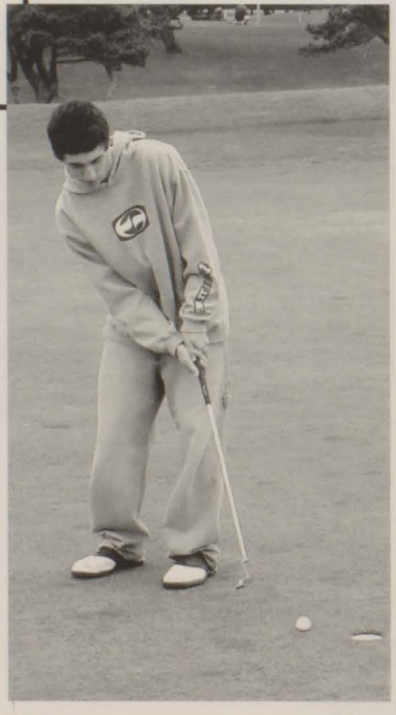
Tees, Greens, and Clubs: Golf Season is in Full Swing

When most people talk about birdies and eagles, they are referring to our fine feathered friends. Members of the golf team, however, have other thoughts on their mind.

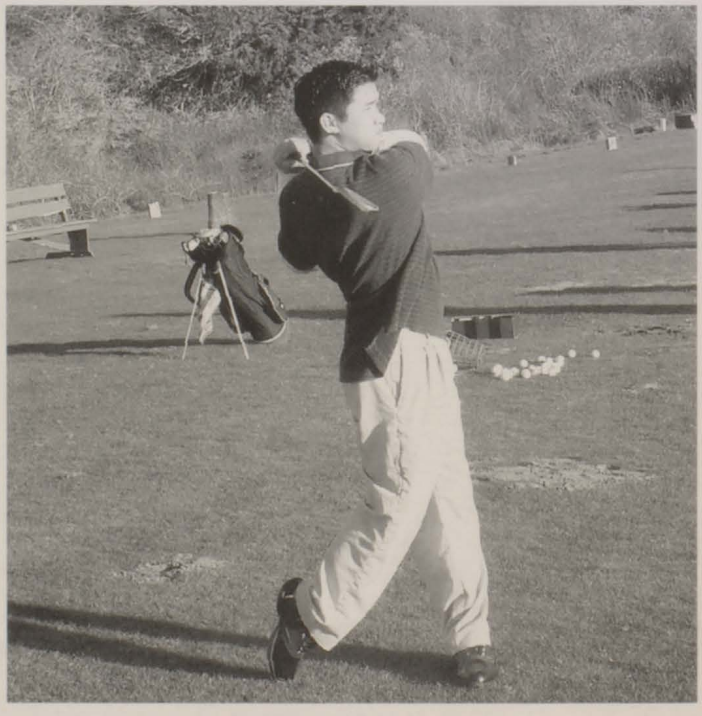
Amid the trees, sand traps, and ponds, golfers worked on perfecting techniques in slicing, chipping, and putting. The daily practices improved these skills and led them on to what was a reasonably successful season at the time of print. The team had already won their first game and were optimistic about upcoming events.

Line up your angles. Coach Poetsch explains how geometry is useful in golf and playing pool. There is a reason to know sine, cosine, and tangent.

Follow Through. Hunter Solt uses his massive golf swing to blast the ball out into the fairway. The team showed improvement over last year and, at the time of print, had great hopes for the season.



Remember your form. Technique and form are important in every sport. Mitch Winstanley warms up at Gearhart .



Watch it fly. Daniel Huong models a perfect golf swing for new "gophers."

Boom! Sean Hamer, down at the Astoria Driving Range, smacks this ball out into the horizon.

"The girls golf team is doing really great due to our new coach, Jason Kunde."

Arriving in style. Athletic Director Dave Faust keeps a watchful eye on practice from a safe distance. As always, Mr. Faust

Four! Karl Hertig spends some time on the practice green to improve his short game.

In the rough and back on the green. Adam Poole knocks his ball back into good play.

Track

A New Start

After a rough start with so few tracksters joining, things got off a little slow. Many people took a break in between sports, making the team appear very small at first, but slowly people migrated to practice and the team began to look like a team. In the end, quite a few tracksers returned, as there IS something for everyone, but only eight will be returning from state: Maggie Olstedt, Hazel Owens, Monica Cifelli, Noelle Harer, Amber Lucas, Tenisha Stock, Kyle Romine, and Jesse Austin.

Goin' for distance. Senior Randy Hamburger attempts to break his personal record during track practice.

Exhilerating! With wings on her shoes, Tenisha Stock clears the hurdles.

"We all worked hard; it's just what we had to do." - Catherine Anderson

Quick feet. Agility drills are just the beginning for Thomas Saucedo. Working out is a part of life for Thomas, who also plays football for Seaside.

Just like family. A close knit bond grows among team members over the course of the season as seen in the picture.

Track Team 2003. With "no one riding the pine," interest in track was high this season, a sign of great things to come.

Even the birds are getting envious. Jesse Austin works on his seemingly intrinsic ability to fly over a high jump bar.

SOFTBALL

Rained out, but not washed out!

It seemed as though everyone wanted to play softball this year, with thirty girls coming out for tryouts. And why not? The thrill of the game, the crack of the bat and all the sunflower seeds you could ever need.

The sun decided to show its face for tryouts for the first time in a gazillion years and the girls showed off their amazing skills for the coaches. The freshmen this year displayed exceptional ability which made for tough decisions on the coaches' behalf.

Slip and slide. The mud makes the landing a little messier but softer for Meghan O'Brien as she practices sliding into base.

Look at that focus...Amanda Laird stares down the pitcher while mentally preparing to hit a run for Seaside.

Nice cut! Elizabeth Delong releases her rage on the ball.

Big D, no E! The girls gather 'round for a chant before beginning a new inning.

And it's gone...Derai Darling smacks the ball into the field.

Action shot! Kate Ayres' glove is a blur as she winds up for a perfect pitch. Jasmine Carrow and Derai Darling warm up in the background.

Just a little higher. Chelsea Morrisey gives it her all to catch a wild one.

Mud bath anyone? After a muddy sliding practice, JV and Varsity players gather around for a quick pic.

Hustle! Ashley Ryan hauls to beat the throw to first.

And she's off! Ashley Flukinger sprints towards first after connecting with the ball.

Lay it down. Jasmine Carrow sets up for a drag bunt.

Baseball

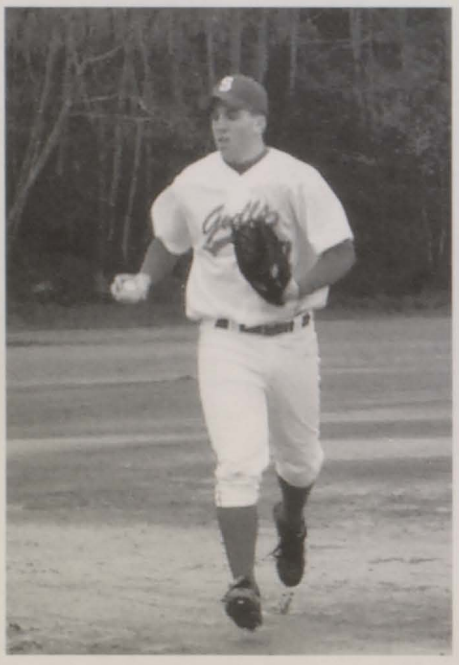
Hit 'em Home

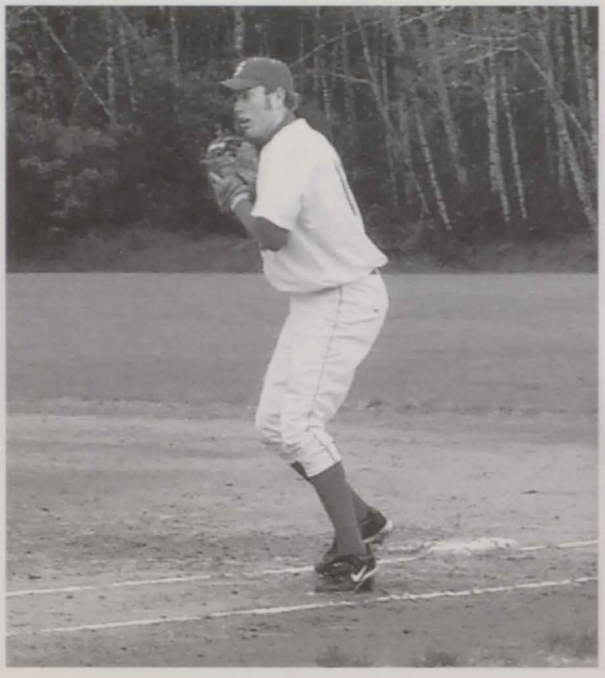
With many veterans who were on the Oregon Jr. State baseball team returning, there was much optimism at the start of the 2003 baseball season. Last summer, these boys made it to the state semi-finals where a highlight of the season was when Vito Cerelli pitched a shut out in the quarter finals against Grant Union, winning 2-0.

While the season started slowly due to the rain and soggy field, the team did not become discouraged. Waiting out the rain is something to which Oregonians have become accustomed, and dedicated baseball players in Seaside, Oregon are somewhat experts at this. After the fields dry out, the team turned up the heat and were the ones to beat.

After some injuries last season, the team hopes to be at full capacity this season.

All a part of the job. Coach helps loosen up tight muscles.





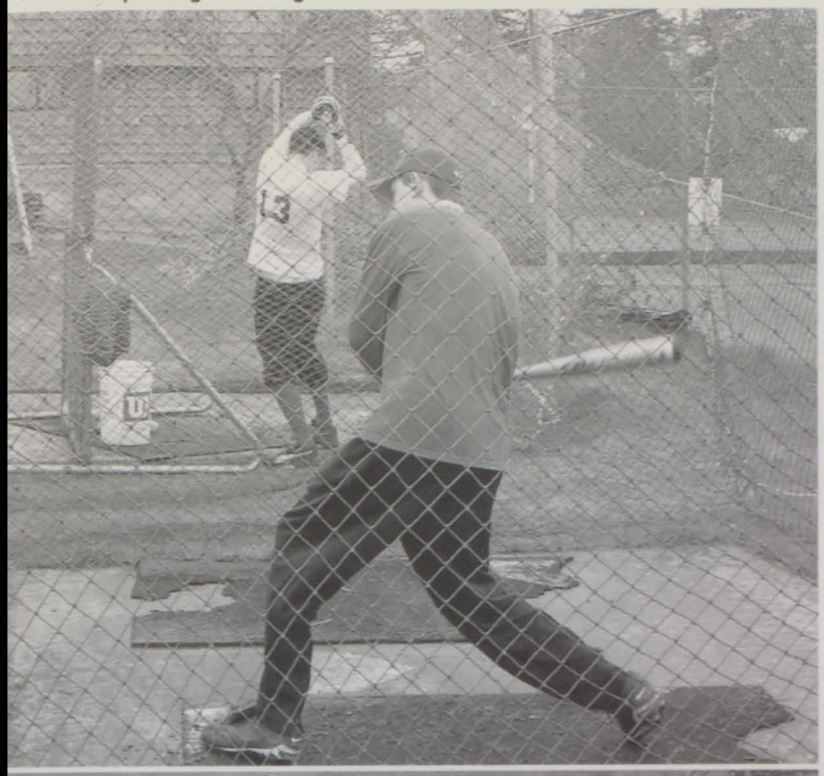
Keeping an eye on the goal, David Doyle gets ready to throw home.

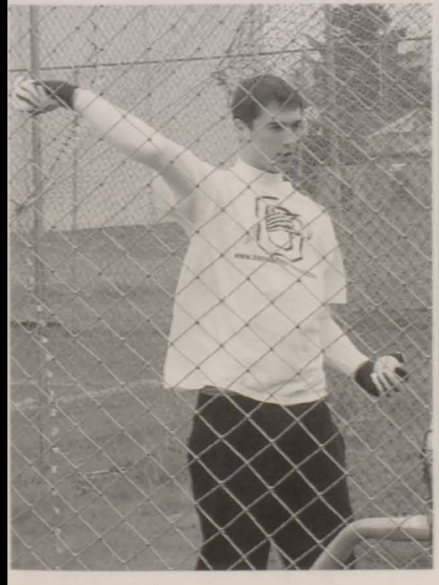
Running to get the out, Patrick Latham hustles to beat the Astorians.

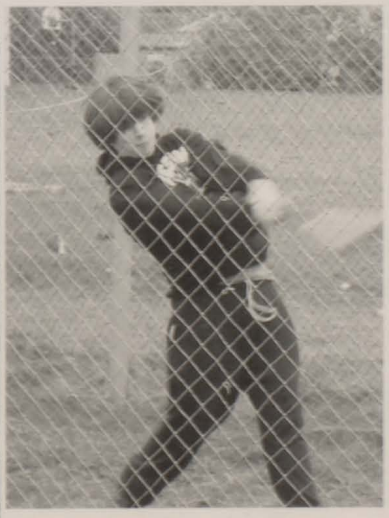
After making an excellent play, Mark Budnick throws home.

The Junior State team put in the time and effort. It all paid off when they won the State Championship.

"Keep your eye on the ball, let it come to you, and then smack it out of the park." Remembering all he was told growing up, Stephen Person works on putting it all together.







PLAY BALL

Jon Wickersham fields a groundball and throws it in to home plate. Jon brought experience to the team this season.

Mark Budnick collects a loose ground ball at the Astoria field. Budnick was one of the key varsity players for the season.

Just hangin' out. Members of the team hang around and chat after practice.

Warming up his throwing arm, Vito Cerelli loosens up at the start of practice.

GOOO!! Play as if you were playing for money. With a reputation on the line, Seaside batter hits it into the outfield.

"Baseball is the best sport to play. It's a game to have fun and to compete." --Daniel Terranova

Extreme Sports

Extreme sports are all around us, believe it or not, and you are probably into one whether you know it or not.

These "other" sports can be just about anything that is not a traditional, organized sport and even some organized sports such as moto cross, surfing, skydiving, horse riding, cliff jumping, snowboarding, and many more. These sports have become so popular that many of them are making there way to the Olympics and other World competition levels.

"He Kicks High." Nick McKenzie nails a pad while doing a jumping up front kick.

"That was killer." Austin Tomlinson, one of the new wave of surfers in the high school, pulls off a nice cut back.

Flop! Caleb Huntsman hacks in senior hall during study hall.

Skimmin'. Karl Dugan tries out a new board.

Catchin' Air! Cliff divin' Kate Ayres jumps off a fifty foot cliff in Mexico.

"I wish I could do that!" Mark Beatty busts out a 50/50 grind just outside of senior hall while taking a break from the daily routine of classes.

Where are my shades when I need them? Hazel Owens squints as the sun shines in her eyes while she works on conquering a rock climbing expedition.

How do you start this thing? Angelina Updike ponders as she sits atop Xavier, the horse.

Duck and cover. Target in sight, Jonathan Shirk carefully takes aim while trying to avoid being shot at in paintball war-games.

Johnny Shirk charges out in front of the bunker with the rest of his team in tow during a paintball tournament. John's team went on to win this round.

"Whack!" Brent Bowman snaps a board with a side kick during Tae-Kwan-Do.

Man that's cold. Ashley Mersereau glides over the thinning water while skimboarding.

Representing Seaside

Every football player dreams of that elusive gold ring on his finger. Every soccer player shoots for the World Cup. It is part of the reason athletes compete--to WIN.

While we all want to win, it is a select few, state-wide, who manage to win consistently enough to represent their school at a state level competition. And even fewer who will bring home a trophy from that competition. These few are to be honored and cheered for their accomplishments. They are

CHAMPIONS.

Two teams from opposite sides of the state facing each other in the first round of playoffs going to the State Championship game. This was the scenario for Seaside Boys Soccer, who travelled to Ontario, Oregon, on the Idaho border with hopes of continuing on to State.

The Seagulls came out of District 1 as the No. 2 seed, behind No. 1 seed Central and ahead of No. 3 Philomath.

Seaside lost by one in the last minute of the game, but the boys played valiantly, especially considering they drove across the state in a bus.

More notably, the soccer team defeated Astoria, an Associated Press' top ten team, twice in one week. In the end, placing second in districts and making it to state playoffs will pale in comparison to beating the Fishermen twice in one week. --from The Oregonian

Second at State isn't bad. In fact, it's spectacular. But, personally, that is not what I am most proud of. I could go on and on about the five boys excelling at State and say that was the heart of the team. But, that wouldn't be fair, or the truth. OUR biggest victory was at Hood River and The Dalles Invitational. Our strength in numbers and our "B" relays gained us the points to beat teams that have more than triple the amount of students our school has. What I liked most of all this year was the buddies I made this swim season. I don't want to sound dramatic, but I honestly made a lot of friends, and when you have a friend swimming with you, it makes the experience much more enjoyable. Guys. . . this is my farewell to swimming; good luck next year and all the years to come.

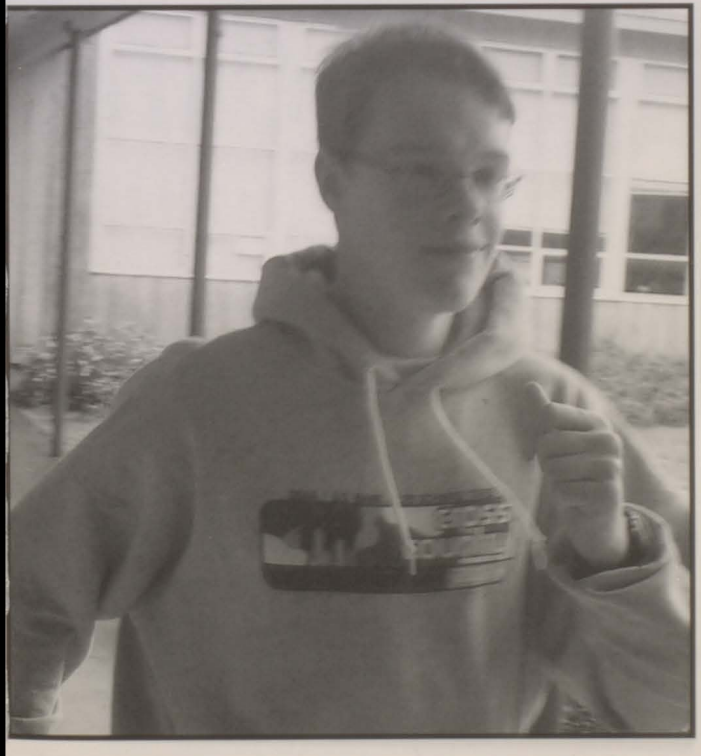
--Joe Oyala

Besides being the toughest sport in high school, wrestling holds the most hard core tournaments anywhere: districts and state. Each team enters their top two wrestlers in each weight bracket to compete at districts, and this year's Cowapa League was considered the hardest of all.

Justin Rodgers, Josiah Sigler, Clint Mead, and Josh McCord all placed third or better to qualify for the three day battle of the State Tournament. Josh McCord didn't place this year, but he fought hard and will have another chance at state next year. Senior Clint Mead lost twice in his three days to place seventh overall. Justin Rodgers will have instant intimidation against any opponent next year, as he placed fourth in the state as a freshman. Josiah Sigler tore apart his competition to get to the Championship match, where he wrestled until his broken wrist became unbearable and caused him to injury default.

Now that wrestling season is over and their wounds are scarring over, the toughest guys in the school are open to any decent females who like buffets, so give them a pat on the back for sticking out three months of pure agonizing competition in the most grueling sport around.

--Clinton Mead



The lone star of cross country, Stephen Robinson, went to State by himself, the only one from Seaside who qualified to compete at the State level. Stephen, unfortunately, placed seventy-seventh in State, but he is optimistic that next year more runners from Seaside will be represented, giving the Seagulls a better chance of bringing home the gold. The girls placed third at Districts, a good showing but not quite good enough to advance to the next level.

One of the highlights of the season was the wonderful opportunity to go to Hawaii. On the trip, they enjoyed running, swimming, watching volcanoes, and some team bonding. The plane ride was long, but it was worth it for the extra rays of sun.

Na Na Na Hey Hey

As the year and this book come to an end, we have to say farewell to the once scared and intimidated freshmen walking through those big doors of SHS who are now adults ready to take the next step into the world beyond the halls of Seaside High School.

Thinking back on the memories the senior class has shared, from winning airband to bringing our class together as we coped with the loss of a special friend, Rachel, a smile appears as we realize all the trials, tribulations, triumphs, and just plain fun that we've had over the years like when we revved up the senior class our junior year by parking in "Senior Parking." Finally--senior year, what the class of 2003 had been waiting for their whole lives.

With SENIOR YEAR came the worries of the Pacifica Project, Homecoming, and Prom. However, this class wasn't about to be left on the steps of SHS while the world passed them by. One of the Seniors' major accomplishments, a first for any class, was that everyone passed the research paper requirement. The Class of 2003 also received an award for exceeding the state standards on test scores. It is with a unique sense of individuality and accomplishment that this year's seniors meet the world. As the seniors say good-bye to high school, their family and friends commend them for their accomplishments thus far in life and encourage them on their journey into life, whatever it may bring.

In closing, it is now time to say good-bye to the class of 2003. As the seniors move on to life after high school, beyond Homecoming Week, after game dances, and Pacifica projects, they will face life changes head-on with grace and dignity and, somedays, Mom and Dad on their side. Here's to the future....

Goodbye

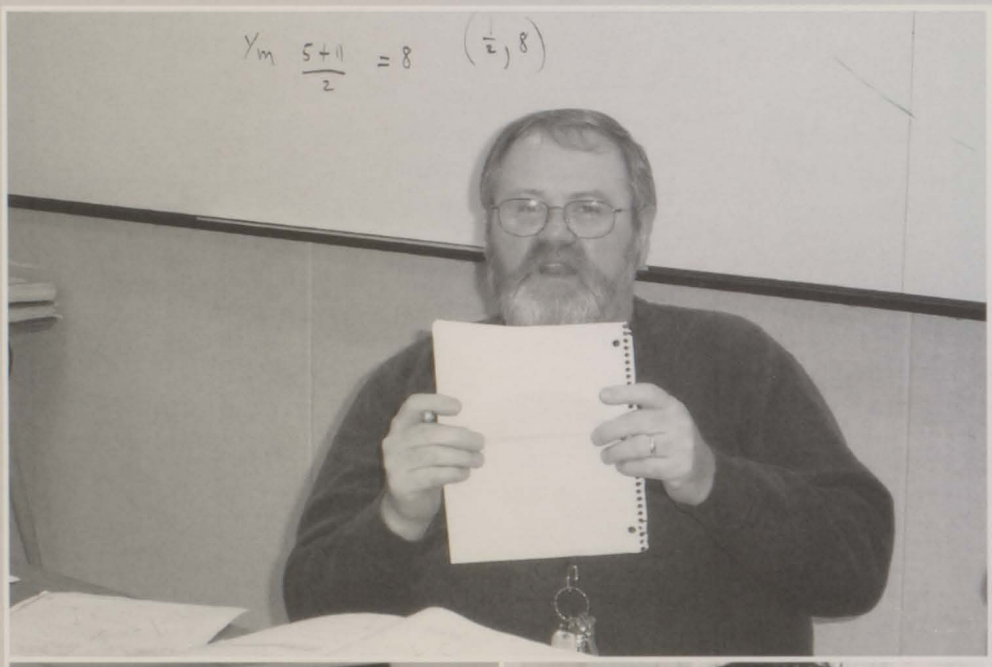
Waves of Change

Change is everywhere in the world, and Seaside High School is no different. One of the most vital lessons students will learn in high school is how to deal with, accept, welcome, and even spark change in life.

Seaside High School experienced much change in the 2002-2003 school year, and we all lived to tell the tale. This year the beloved senior class prepared to move out into the world, and the brand new freshmen began their high school journey. We are saddened by some of our favorite faculty members who are not planning on returning for another year, but we also are happy to welcome new teachers into our school.

In the years to come, we will experience even more change, no matter what we are doing. Outlooks will change, friends will change, teachers will change; we will change. And that's what makes life interesting.

One of the most exciting changes to occur during high school is the long awaited graduation.



After years of service, some faculty members chose this year to be their last year at Seaside. One of those teachers, Mr. Reed, is moving overseas where he will teach in a private school. Other changes include new faculty members, such as Mr. Mitchell, who took classes on several field trips for hands-on learning experiences.

Seaside High School welcomed 146 freshmen to school in 2002. They brought a youthful exuberance, curiosity, and enthusiasm with them to liven things up a bit.

A reduction in the amount of money given to Oregon schools will cause changes in faculty positions and funding for sports and other activities next year to an extent not previously seen at Seaside HS.

Joining SHS this year is new student Viriana Rodriguez. Like other new students, she has adjusted to the change of a new school, new teachers, and new friends.

THE WAR ON TERRORISM

Over the course of the year, the world's attention focused on a chain of tumultuous terrorist events. In Afghanistan, the Taliban regime fell from power as U.S. troops crippled the al-Qaeda network and cleared caves in search of Osama bin Laden. World-wide, civilians and military personnel fell victim to terrorist bombs and acts of hatred. On the home front, "bioterrorism" became a common term after it was revealed that Iraqi leader, Saddam Hussein, was producing biological weapons. Hussein's defiance of United Nation's imposed sanctions prompted the United States to seek world support of military action against Iraq. Members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization wrestled over conflicting opinions on the issue, while North Korean leader Kim Jong Il threatened to deploy nuclear weapons if Iraq was attacked. As tensions rose among political leaders, the world watched and waited to see what the next chapter in "The War on Terrorism" would bring.

Sadie Hawkins

Ladies, bring your cowboy and your boots on down to the honkey-tonk! Everyone knows that the Sadie Hawkins dance is always girls ask guys. This year Mr. Mizell conducted marriages and couples paid a dollar to get hitched. Each couple received rings and a marriage certificate. Tattoos were also available at the tattoo parlor. Music played at the dance was mostly rap and R&B, although some country was played. The DJ featured a line dancing contest and Joe Oyala and Kyle Romine won for the boys. Kathy Sue Maltman won for the girls. The ho down was much enjoyed by all!

Most people were shocked when ballots went around that morning in first period requesting their opinions on who stands out in this school. "Don't these come every two years?" was heard more times than necessary, but when the big day of the Oscars arrived, few complained.

Although most people took the oscars seriously, there are those who chose to fill out "Most likely to be President" as George Bush the 3rd just to add a little spice to the lives of the ASB officers who tallied the votes. After the four top nominations from each category were decided, the officers could be seen wandering the halls taking mug shots of the nominees.

With spring break just around the corner, and all the prep work finished, the oscars finally arrived. The presenters of each award were dressed in their fine evening gowns or formal slacks like a reminiscent of the time when the SHS oscars was a very, very sophisticated event. Some of the performances included Brendon Stock singing Jack Johnson with Marshall Maier and Tony West on instrumentals, Bridget Kitson and Kathryn Dueber singing a Beatles song, and a huge entourage of musicians singing Marvin Gaye's "Whats Going On" with Kelsey Mousley, Stephanie Duncan, Bridget Kitson, Kathryn Dueber, Carn Weise, Aaron Webb, and David Doyle. The Oscars was a big success and congrats to the winners.

How Cute! Ashley Mersereau ambushes Jeff Hinton and goes for the throat. • In attempt to downplay his unmagnified excitement, Noah Dooley pretends to throw his oscar away. • Preparing for his famous career, Joe Oyala attempts the fist-in-mouth act. • Ever since Carn Weise won most likely to be a millionaire, he just can't stop daydreaming about the luxurious days ahead. • A traveling trophy case. SHS's nicest guy Josh Chilinski keeps his accumulating stack of oscars with him wherever he goes. • Gollum? No no, its just Tenisha Stock giving us a close-up on the prettiest eyes in school. • Tadaah! Joel Hathaway and Ava Gizdavich can't resist showing off their best dancing abilities. • In preparation for next years battle, Kristen Thoennes uses her oscar's one-of-a-kind shine to inspire her newest piece. • While spiking his hair, Paden Polevoi attempts to help out the gelling process.

Heather Nelson and Sam Mancill: Tonight marks the end of an important chapter in our lives, as well as an even more important beginning. In the last four years this class has come together as friends, as students, and as part of the community. Henry Ford once said. "Before everything else, getting ready is the secret of success." We are ready now; ready to assume the burdens and joys of life. Here tonight, we turn the page and discover before us what will be written in the books of our lives.

Kilee Johnson: Martin Luther King once said, "I have a dream that my four children will one day live in a nation where they will not be judged by the color of their skin but by the content of their character." I too have a dream for the graduating class of Seaside High School. I have a dream that when we encounter individuals with differences, that we look at it as an opportunity to enrich our lives rather than an opportunity to criticize. I have a dream that when we are faced with greater knowledge, that we look at it as an opportunity to learn and when faced with lesser knowledge, we will look at it as an opportunity to teach.

Aaron Webb and Aurora Hood: But here we are, graduating...and to tell you the truth, it doesn't feel half bad. Yes it may be a little stressful for some, a little emotional for others, but what we all need to realize is that this moment isn't just your average seagull poo--it isn't going to wash away after a couple years. Personally, I know the friends, the teachers, the memories I've made, they're all going to stick with me for a long time, and I'm sure everyone else feels the same way. As much as we would like to stand in the spotlight of glory all by ourselves we cannot do such a thing. We got lots of help along the way. I would like to take one last opportunity to extend a special thank you to the very extraordinary staff.

Wonderful Prom 2003 Tonight

Page By Kate Ayres and Ashley Mersereau

No matter where prom is held there is always a feeling of elegance and grandeur that goes along with this special evening. Everyone is polished and beautiful, the boys in their tuxes and the girls in their fancy gowns. For one evening we get a chance to dress up like movie stars and pretend that we aren't just a bunch of high schoolers.

This prom was especially beautiful, as it was held at the Masonic Temple in Astoria. The building was old and romantic, and the decorations were beautiful. Standing on top of the balcony, it was easy to see why this was such a perfect setting.

Couples danced the night away in all their finery, and as everyone streamed out into the night, we all knew that this would be an evening we would remember for a long time to come.

1. Reigning over the prom. Kelsey Mousley and Clinton Mead share a dance as King and Queen.

2. One last dance. The senior class poses on the balcony for the grand finale.

3. Lookin' fine. Derai Darling makes a "darling" princess.

4. Lady in red. Alison Osburn looks spiffy with matching feathers in her hair.

5. Peace out.

6. Hope she doesn't float away. Ashley See gathers all of the balloons in the process of cleaning up.

7. She's so happy. Elizabeth Delong is enjoying herself immensely.

8. Big pimpin'. Jon Wickersham drapes his arms around Tasha Reidlinger and Jade Hermreck.

9. Megan Leinassar looks like a fariytale princess at her senior prom.

10. "Where did you come from, where did you go, Kyle and Joe?" Kyle Romine, Joe Oyala and Mckenzie Hull bust out the line dance.

11. What up my homies? Emma Fenton, Hazel Owens and Mckenzie Hull flash gang signs.

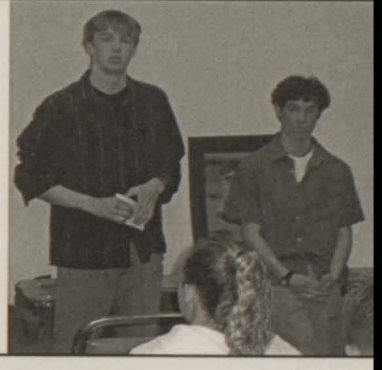
Presenting Pacifica Projects-- last stop before graduation



1.Jessica Beck and Jake McCulloch help Raymond Hamburger set up equipment for his presentation.

2. Allison Dion works with Levi in the SMART reader program.

3.Elizabeth Johnson and Nicole Eldridge put in their time working with injured birds.

4. Calm your nerves; it's almost over. Presentations are the last step in the seniors' community service projects.

5.Foster Inc. was the organization Eva Card and Kim Hackleman spent their Pacifica hours with.

6. Daniel Huong, Sean Christian, and Andre Canessa anxiously wait for the judges before beginning their presentation.

For the seniors, Pacifica Presentations are the finale of a four-year high school experience. 50 hours of community service, a well developed speech for all to hear, and a 10-15 page senior research paper.

Pacifa gives the seniors a chance to return something back to the community. Projects range from memorial dinners, to concerts, baseball camps and salmon restoration.

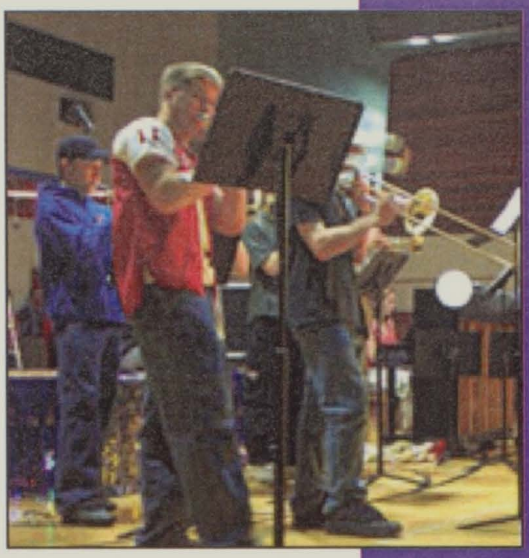
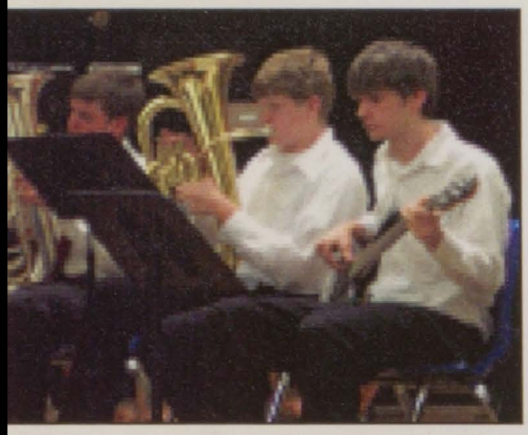
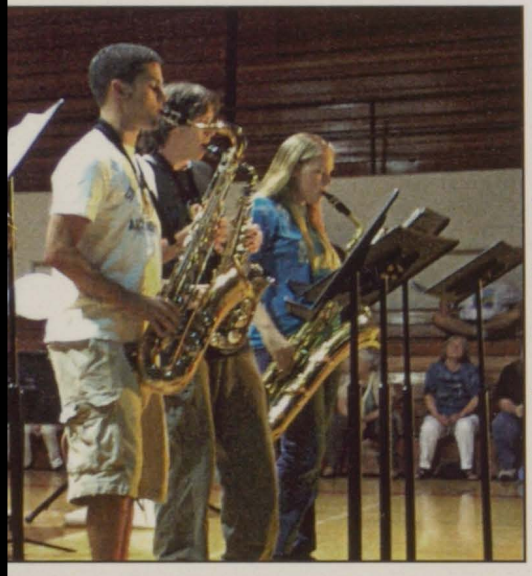
Talent in Seaside





Page By Adam Beckman & Cindy Granatir



Ah, what a show of talent. You know, where everyone goes up and makes fools of themselves? None-the-less this year's talent show was indeed a show of talent, with many great acts by the SHS students and a wonderful crowd, this year's Spring Talent Show was an amazing success. However, it is not the only place talent is displayed. If one only looks around a bit, talent can be seen everywhere: in the classroom, at PDX, in galleries, in museums, in the hallway, and in the streets. Seaside students and staff are oozing with talent, and while some take a little more coaxing than others, every-one shines when given the opportunity.
